

Set within a very small development close to Exeter, this stunning new-build property is the perfect dream family home. Clients Dave and Sandra Crocker were looking for a kitchen to suit their busy lifestyle, a practical family kitchen with lots of space for entertaining and parties.

Bradburys manager Mike Richards worked very closely with the clients and the building company to achieve a functional and stylish open-plan kitchen that sits perfectly within their living space. The developer RBL Homes creates homes to a very high standard and by selecting our Stoneham range, our clients were able to reflect this level of quality in their new kitchen cabinetry and products.

Stoneham have made bespoke kitchens in Britain for over 150 years and are Royal Warrant holders to the Queen's household since 1995. Their craftsmanship blends the best of traditional hand-crafted techniques with state-of-the-art technology.

The Crockers were very open to design ideas and together with Mike chose a warm walnut veneer paired with white high-gloss doors. Sandra picked all furnishings around a theme of aubergine tones, which perfectly complements the door colour combination. Glass mirrors and lighting, along with sumptuous fabrics and accessories add the glamorous finishing touches. Mike included a framework around the tall units and refrigeration to create a floating appearance of the kitchen. Sandra then carried the wallpaper from the dining area through into the kitchen to unite the complete living-kitchen concept.

Task lighting allows the family to create different moods according to their needs with bright overhead lighting for preparing and cooking food, and under worktop lighting for a relaxed atmosphere when entertaining in the evenings. A built-in music system also allows for a great party atmosphere.

Having a separate cosy living room in the property, this open-plan kitchen and living area creates a space where the whole family can be together for all occasions. The large island includes a walnut breakfast bar with seating for four, open shelving features, and a BORA downdraft hob which gives a minimalistic look without the need for bulky overhead extraction.

Being keen cooks, Dave and Sandra wanted the best appliances to allow them to enjoy creating perfect meals for the family. High on their wish list were a full steam oven, an induction hob with extraction, a boiling hot water tap, a large storage pantry and large integrated refrigeration and freezer with ice and chilled water dispenser. Sandra and Dave opted for Miele appliances. Miele prides itself on developing products that offer a superior user experience and outstanding performance. Sandra feels that the Miele MasterCool was the perfect choice for a large family, stating that the zoned temperature-controlled drawers make their food last five times longer.

The couple said: "We are extremely pleased with the service the team at Bradburys provided.

"When building a new home, it is great to be so involved in the decision making but at times it can be quite stressful.

"From design to installation Bradburys was a joy to work with. Of all the companies that were involved, Bradburys came out top on quality and service." ♦
